Wabi Sabi

The roots of Wabi-Sabi are in Zen Buddhism. 'Wabi' comes from the root "wa" which means harmony, peace, tranquility and balance. 'Sabi' stands for "the bloom of time." In essence, the philosophy celebrates elements that are weathered, worn or rusted.

In the following pages we have attempted to reimagine spaces with a touch of Wabi-Sabi. Explore a range of textures and shades that showcase the passage of time, peel by peel and stain by stain.

For brutally honest designs

For decades brutalist architecture was a symbol of the underclass. Today, however, brutalism is back in style.

London treats its brutalist buildings with care and respect.
Is there a reason why other cities won't?
With dozens of these structures now listed as heritage buildings, it has become a haven for the concrete explorer.

Guerrilla is even more interesting

Guerrilla architecture is the hacking of existing buildings, often old, disused or distressed, for a new function. Students tired of waiting for sustainable transformation and disillusioned with the pace of change, hijack disused spaces to create socially responsible and sustainable designs. Such buildings, spaces, attachments and interventions are often characterised by their parasitic or alien nature.

It steals the show

For strength and distinctive colours, the Corten steel style of architecture has been noted by most architects worldwide. A kind of steel with a unique chemical composition, that provides oxidation which in turn protects the piece, without altering its mechanical characteristics. It also adds to the core strength of the structure and enriches aesthetics.

Aludecor Wabi-Sabi MCPs are inexpensive compared to steel and help achieve the look of Corten steel without any compromise.

Distressed is in

Making a piece of furniture or object appear aged and older, by giving it a weathered or ‘distressed’ look adds intrigue. There are many methods to achieve this.

The aim is to attain a fi nish that is intentionally manipulated to look less than perfect. Sandpaper or paint strippers can be used for this. The fi nal appearance is often called the patina.

With Wabi-Sabi this look can be achieved with minimal eff ort. Just choose the right shade to make your creation stand out!
